III. General professional experience:

I am a dual financial advisory expert and M&A investment banker with an expertise in four separate disciplines:

- Bankruptcy and Restructuring Advisory
- Valuation (Business and Securities) and M&A Corporate Finance
- Forensic and Fraud Examination Accounting
- Real Estate Finance (Credit Analysis and Interest Rate Valuation)

My diversified professional background stems from senior experience in both mergers and acquisition (M&A) investment banking and financial advisory consulting. I am the sole author of the International Association of CPA, Attorneys and Management's 300-page executive textbook, The Executive's Guide to Business Valuation. Prior to my current role as a practice leader within national accounting and consulting firm Crowe Horwath LLP, I previously worked as a senior investment banker directing the valuation and fairness opinion practice of a leading middle-market M&A investment bank.

I focus my bankruptcy and restructuring practice on applying my valuation, real estate finance and forensic accounting expertise in multiple contexts and often within the same case. I lead engagements through representing both debtors and creditors in several aspects of either Chapter 7 or Chapter 11. Sample recent client assignments include forensic tracing and fraud tracing, investigation accounting, real estate and valuation negotiating for Chapter 11 reorganizations, deal structuring, projection/financial feasibility analysis, and damages claims.

I also specialize in formal interest rate valuations, both within and outside of bankruptcy cases. I have delivered over 15 formal interest rate valuation opinions for real estate private companies in pricing private loans totaling hundreds of millions of invested capital. I have also successfully also defended this valuation and credit analysis before the IRS in multiple tax compliance appraisals.

IV. General pertinent experience:

I have been involved in forensic accounting mediation matters from a transactional and litigation consulting standpoint. I have applied mediation and negotiation skills in over 50 transactions during my career. I have also applied mediation and negotiating skills in helping Chapter 11 plan confirmations or assisting in legal strategy formation.

V. Mediation training:

My most recent formal mediation training was a 40-hour advanced mediation training course from the Center of Law in Mediation. This recent training was completed in December 2011. A course description can be found below.

Course	Provider	Date
Mediation Intensive Training	Center for Mediation in Law	5 days

VI. Pertinent bankruptcy training:

As mentioned, I focus my bankruptcy and restructuring practice on applying my valuation, real estate and forensic accounting expertise in multiple contexts and often within the same case. I lead engagements through representing both debtors and creditors in several major aspects of either Chapter 7 or Chapter 11. Sample recent client assignments include forensic and fraud tracing, investigation accounting, real estate and valuation negotiating for Chapter 11 reorganizations, deal structuring, projection/financial feasibility analysis, and damages claims.

I also specialize in interest rate valuations, both within and outside of bankruptcy cases. I have delivered over 15 formal interest rate valuation opinions for real estate private companies in pricing private loans totaling hundreds of millions. I have also successfully also defended this valuation and credit analysis before the IRS in multiple tax compliance appraisals.

VII. General pertinent business or legal experience:

I am an active national instructor and speaker for various training organizations and certification preparatory programs. I frequently teach for all 4 parts of the CPA examination (Audit, Business, Financial and Regulation) across the country for DeVry University's Becker CPA Preparatory division. I have served as an adjunct university professor as well for DeVry University.

I am a permanent board of director of the International Association of CPAs, Attorneys, and Management (IACAM). IACAM is an advanced training and networking organization for professionals and senior management.

I have been selected by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) to serve as a national instructor in business valuation for the National Judicial College (NJC), the official university for training federal and state judges. In the process, I have instructed hundreds of attorneys, judges, and mediators over the course of a year. I have also recently presented at multiple forums and conferences for organizations such as the Corporate Executive Board, Financial Leadership Exchange, Financial Research Associates, New York State Society of CPAs, and the Center for Professional Education.

I have served as both a testifying financial expert and expert consultant. I have also published articles in leading trade publications. Representative clients have spanned the range of privately held companies and public companies across nearly thirty industries. I have also completed hundreds of formal or summary engagements across the following types of valuations: transfer pricing, litigation support and economic advisory, M&A investment banking, estate and gift tax appraisals, ESOP transactions and annual ESOP update appraisals, forensic accounting investigations, intangible asset appraisals, buyer due-diligence, fairness opinions, solvency opinions, going-private transactions, post-acquisition purchase price appraisals, preferred stock studies, goodwill impairment testing, dissenting shareholder valuations, and buy-sell agreements.
